WOMEN OF NATIONAL SOCIETY PREPARING FOR ELECTION.

Effort to Be Made to Reelect as President Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks - Mrs. Donald McLean a Candidate.

As the time approaches for the biennial election of the officers of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the electioneering and wire-pulling which is carried on by the 40,000 members of this patriotic order is interesting study, and would afford many a valuable hint to their more professional brothers of the great political parties of the country.

Every two years there is an election for president general. The ordinary ones are exciting enough, but the coming one promises to be intensely interesting. The situation is peculiar. The present incumbent of the office, Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, wife of the newly-elected vice president of the United States, has held the office for four years. The Washington contingent of the society, for the sake of the prestige which her husband's position would give her, and incidentally, them, are contemplating a coup d'etat by which she may be retained as president general. The only other candidate in the field for the high office is Mrs. Donald McLean, regent of the New York city chapter, D. A. R. The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, according to a Washington daughter, who is considered an authority on all historical data of the society, was organized in Washington, D. C., August 9, 1890. The founders were Miss Eugenia Washington, Miss Mary Desha and Mrs. Ellen Harden Walworth, the only three women, who, owing to the season of the year, were near enough to the capital to respond to the call. Thus the society, which numbers 40,000 women to-day, was modestly started. Its raison d'etre was man's injustice—the refusal of the Sons of the American Revolution to admit women to their society.

The society was formally organized October 11, 1890. In October, 1890, at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Cabell, the colors of Washington's staff, dark blue and white, were chosen, and the motto "Amor Patriae" proposed, which was afterwards changed to "Home and Country." A seal bearing the figure of Abigail Adams in the costume of 1776, and seated at a spinning wheel, the suggestion of Miss Mary Desha, was adopted.

On June 8, 1891, the society was incorporated under the laws of congress for the District of Columbia, as "The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution." The signers of the act of incorporation were Mrs. Caroline Scott Harrison, Mrs. Henrietta Greeley, Mrs. Sarah E. Goode, Mrs. Mary E. McDonald, Mrs. Mary E. Cabell, Mrs. Helen M. Boynton, Miss Eugenia Washington and Miss Mary Desha. The officers of the National Society Daughters American Revolution, consist of a president general, vice president general, in charge of organization; 20 vice presidents general, one recording and corresponding secretary general, two registers general, one treasurer general, one historian general, one surgeon general, one chaplain general and such other officers as shall be found necessary.

Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, at the time of her election as president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was the wife of the senator from Indiana. Her nomination carried out the aim of certain members of the society in Washington to have the wife of a politician at the head of the D. A. R. This sentiment has met with much opposition outside of Washington since Mrs. Harrison's death.

Mrs. Donald McLean, who looms to the front as the successor of Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, upon the expiration of her term as president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is perhaps as widely known as any woman in official life.

WHENCE FURS COME

VALUABLE LITTLE ANIMALS SCATTERED FAR AND WIDE.

Skins of Great Worth Obtained by Trappers at Risk of Their Lives - Creatures with Expensive Coats.

Cynics tell us that we never can know a fur by the name it sells under, there now being such perfection in the art of dyeing and treating skins that are to masquerade as something very different from their humble real selves. But though, doubtless, in the fur business there are shams galore, yet the valuable fur-bearing animals are by no means extinct.

History and romance give added worth to the ermine, the fur that for so long has been in favor with royalty; but to our way of thinking it is by no means chief among beautiful furs, and it is a rather trying to wear, its dead whiteness, unrelieved by the black tips, would be almost impossible for the average complexion. Many people think the ermine is naturally dappled with black, but this is not the case, for the little animal in winter, the time when it is captured, is pure white, save the tip of its tail, which is very black. It takes numbers of the creatures to get enough black tips for the furrier to prepare the ermine after the fashion demanded to-day, when ladies insist the unbecoming white be relieved by enough black to make it attractive.

In summer the ermine is a sort of mahogany brown, but in winter nature changes his coat to white, so he may fit in with the snowy wastes about him and escape the eye of an enemy. But the small thing is set upon by relentless and untiring hunters, its life sacrificed for the sake of its beautiful coat. Ermine is obtained in northern Europe, northern Asia and the Hudson Bay district.

A white fur of singular beauty is the white fox, so fashionable this season for young girls. The Arctic fox, the smallest of foxes, and one of the most beautiful, is found in Labrador, Newfoundland and generally in the Arctic regions of North America; also in northern Europe, northern Asia, in Iceland and Spitzbergen. In summer this fox is a bluish gray, like the ermine putting on a snowy coat in the winter. The fur extends clear down over its feet; its tail is very bushy.

In contrast to the furs just mentioned is the Russian sable, a glorious fur, wonderfully soft and silky, its rich dusky becoming to everyone so fortunate as to be able to wear it. It is a very expensive fur, so many skins needed, the animal difficult to capture, the trapper undergoing much hardship and no small danger in the pursuit of this particular representative of the weasel family. The sable is found at its best in the coldest month of the year in cold Asiatic Russia, and in searching the wastes over which the tiny creatures roam not a few trappers lose their lives. The price of $500 has been paid for one skin, an ordinary skin is valued at from $25 to $100. The sable is also found in Kamchatka, in Labrador forests, and on the borders of northern Canada.

In America we have a sable of less value than that coming from Asiatic Russia, one known as the river marten. Not so costly as the Russian sable, yet it has a high value. The animal from which it is procured is about the size of a large cat, and it is gray with black spots. A gray fur of silky softness and exquisite tone is the chinchilla, and we Americans bring over large quantities of this fur every year from Europe.

Sealskins cost from 30 to 40 per cent. more than they used to, though yet, strange to say, the fur is not so liked by Dame Fashion as in days when its market value was considerably less. Seals are found almost exclusively now about Alaska, and are not captured farther south to the extent they once were. The young seals are richest black in color, the older ones shade from black to gray, the gray on the shoulders, and they are a reddish brown beneath. Though seal-skin seems to have lost some of its prestige, it remains one of the most beautiful of the dark furs.

The lynx is another dark fur of extreme beauty, the hair so long and glossy. It is found in Asia Minor, in northern Europe, and in North America. The fur of the lynx of Asia Minor shows thick tufts on the thighs and spots of deepest jet on the breast. The sea otter is another fur highly valued, and this animal is hunted in Alaska islets and on Alaska reefs.

KATE WARING.

Century Spoons. "Grandpa courted grandma on this sofa," said the pretty girl, shyly. "You don't say!" exclaimed her best young man. "And pa courted ma here." "Gracious! It must have had lots of 'spoons.'" "As many as our buffet." "Well, I'll just add another," and he did.—Cleveland Leader.

FOUL BREATH.

Foul breath is caused by foul stomach attended with torpid liver, bitter or bad taste, furred tongue, loss of, or irregular appetite, heavy or full bloated feeling in stomach, "water brash," or sour eructations of gas, sick or bilious headaches, disposition to drowsiness, or "the blues," irritable temper or peevishness and kindred symptoms. Not all of these symptoms are present in every case.

To tone up and invigorate both stomach and liver and start the digestive processes into healthy action, there is, to say the least, no superior agent to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is prepared without the use of a particle of alcohol, from the active medicinal principles extracted from the roots of native American plants, and is an honestly made, safe medicine that any one may take without fear of forming an appetite for stimulants. Its benefits and cures are lasting and not simply the temporary exhilaration sometimes experienced from strong alcoholic preparations.

No man is stronger than his stomach, therefore, when the stomach is weak it should be promptly toned up and put in order to the end that it may properly digest and prepare for proper assimilation the food which otherwise can not strengthen the body. You cannot find a medicine that will do this more promptly and permanently than "Golden Medical Discovery." A whole train of bodily ailments result when the stomach becomes foul, torpid and weak, and, naturally enough, when the stomach trouble is cured they, being dependent thereon, disappear; hence it is that rheumatism, blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous sores, kidney affections and various and diverse appearing maladies yield to the potent tonic and alterative properties of the "Golden Medical Discovery." Bear in mind that the "Discovery" is an active, potent medicine and not a beverage to be taken for its exhilarating effects. It is made to cure disease, not to appease a craving for stimulants.

Don't be wheedled or over-persuaded into taking something else which may be said to be "just as good." Take only "Golden Medical Discovery" which has more than a third of a century's record embracing many thousands of well-attested cures. As it has cured thousands of people, it is likely to cure you, if you give it fair trial for any of the maladies for which we recommend it.

After Physicians Fall "Discovery" Cures.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: "Dear Sir—About two years ago I had an attack of grippe which left me in a very weakened condition. My stomach was in bad shape; could not eat a meal without being greatly distressed, and the taking of food was frequently followed by vomiting or loose stools. Had headache and general malaise. After I had been suffering like this for some time, a man who had used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, told me about the medicine and I procured a bottle of it. I felt a slight improvement by the time I had used the first bottle, so continued the use of the 'Discovery' for several weeks until I was myself again. It is an excellent preparation and I am glad to tell how good it is."

Malaria and Liver Trouble Cured.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: "Dear Sir—I was a victim of malaria so common in the South and also had liver trouble. Doctored for some time but my condition continued to grow worse and I began a despair of recovery. Finally Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended and I am happy to say that a course of treatment with this remedy was most successful. I soon began to improve, appetite returned, my complexion became clear and bright, I regained my good spirits and was soon restored to health. I cannot say enough in favor of your medicine. Yours truly, MISS LUCILE DEVAL, 3035 St. Charles Ave., New Orleans, La."

Young married people should read the "Common Sense Medical Adviser." Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps, for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for a cloth-bound copy.

Dr. Pierce's Good temper is largely a matter of good health, and good health is largely a matter of healthy activity of the bowels. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are safe, sure and speedy, and once taken do not have to be taken always. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. By all druggists.
